

Guide to using the System & the site

What is System X2?

System X2 is a mathematically based football (soccer) forecasting service that operates in leagues all over the world all year round. It works by using specialised algorithms to analyse various aspects of form on a continuous basis to deliver up predictions in those leagues.

It specialises in predicting away wins or draws – i.e. the home team to drop points. These predictions are referred to as ‘picks’.

The system has a success rate consistently over 70%.

The unique difference between the system and every other forecasting service on the internet is that the system does not forecast the result of every game taking place in a given league on a given date. Picks are generated by the result of the mathematical analysis.

Typically the system will produce between 15 and 30 picks a week and the 70%+ success rate applies only to those picks. In this way SX2 hugely reduces the number of games you have to pick from on any given date. Once a pick is included the system makes no further prediction of the likelihood of one outcome (e.g. the away win) over the other (e.g. the draw) but does give you a further indication of form using the 3-star rating system (see below).

There are 2 internet sites—a desktop site (for PC’s, laptops & tablets) and a mobile one (for all smartphones)

System X2 specialises in forecasting

Ways of using System X2?

You can use the system in 3 main ways:

To increase the potential return on a bet SX2 recommends betting in accumulators – doubles, trebles or fourfolds. There are 3 main ways you can bet accumulators using system picks:

1. Use your own judgement to decide which of the two outcomes forecast (in each of the picks) have, in your opinion, the better chance of success and back just that outcome as a traditional double, treble or fourfold.
2. Mix it up – back both outcomes in one or more of the picks and use your judgement to back just one outcome in one or more picks in a mixed double, treble or fourfold (e.g. back both outcomes in Match A and double that with just one of the outcomes in Match B to make an SX2 mixed double).
3. Back both of the outcomes in several picks as doubles, trebles or fourfolds. This is the most likely to bring a return as you’ll be backing both the away win and the draw in your double, treble or fourfold.

See the examples below, which all illustrate a double using the same two matches:

Brest v Dijon Draw @ 23/10, Away win @ 23/17

MK Dons v Brighton Draw @ 23/10, Away win @ 11/10

Resources

To help you SX2 provides 3 main tools – the Archive of system picks for all active leagues, the 3 star rating system & the Leagues Summary.

The Archive

You can use the SX2 archive to check out the previous record of a given team within the picks. That is to say, how a given team has fared for any other time it's been selected as a pick, either as the home team (i.e. forecast to drop points at home) or as the away team (i.e. forecast to pick up

The 3-star rating system

SX2 offers an indication of the form analysis of a given pick using a 3-star rating system. There are two 3-star ratings for picks, both of which compare the form of the home team with the form of the away team. The first is an indication using a comparison between both teams overall form for the current season, the second an indication using a comparison between both teams recent form for the season. (NB the number of matches involved in calculating the second indication is an SX2 secret and varies from league to league)

Remember that all picks are for the away win or the draw, i.e. the home team to DROP points

The Leagues Summary

SX2 provides an ongoing constantly updated summary of the current success rate of every league being picked from, showing both overall success rate and last 14 days success rate. This will give you a much better idea of how things are currently running with the system picks. Subscribers will also get access to statistical analysis of the leagues in the free picks section.
